

SUMMARY

Since I was a child, I loved telling stories to anyone who would listen. The unchangeable element of every of those stories was travelling to far away countries and writing in coffee shops while drinking coffee and observing people passing by.

Nowadays I make films, write, and create content to express my storytelling passion and to share my stories with the world. I thrive when I can create meaningful and mindful content. I love that stories can have a massive impact on individuals and the society in general. My primary interest is to make impact films and write stories that will make readers stop and question their lifestyle choices, especially the impact those choice have on the future of our planet and global society. I also write stories and books for kids, which help me connect to my inner child while letting my imagination run wild and far.

Since my graduation from a film school in 2004 I had to learn a lot about social media, social media outreach, social media strategy and how to plan, set goals and measure the outcome of my work. This hands-on knowledge led me to realise that many creative people out there need help with their digital media strategy and digital media outreach. Part of my daily job is to help others thrive through creating manageable digital media strategy, for which I use my Mindful Storytelling method or help them create content that can be used for social media outreach.

I'm also a founder of $9.99 Film School aimed at filmmakers who would like to take their careers to the next level and not bankrupt in the process. I like helping others and making an impact with my work, and I hope that my publications, filmography, and programs prove just that.
